Manager Comment

US markets closed higher in August despite the low summertime volume and rising cases of the delta variant of COVID. August historically has been a tough month for stocks, placing second behind September in worst performing months, but not this year. All three indices finished the month near record highs, however the Russell 2000 small cap index struggled. Rising interest rates and mixed earnings reports weighted on the sector. Long dated Treasury yields posted their biggest monthly gains since March but were not enough to slow the steady rise in stocks.

The Castlestone Next Generation UCITS fund posted a gain in August. Stock performance across the fund was driven by earnings reports with The Exone Company and Mercadolibre leading the way. The funds top holdings are Regeneron Pharmaceuticals, Facebook Inc, Amazon.com, Tesla and Irobot Corporation.
